I get the above error when connecting to a WCF Service (both local and live server). However this service was working fine previously. I know this is a common error - but I have tried almost all the solutions available on the Internet and none seems to be the solution. Answers I found on the Internet suggest there might be some missing types, but all the types are there with the same name as in the interface, and as far as I can tell, all interfaces are consistent. One answer mentioned the "MyInterface" might be different from the ServiceContract name, which I'm not sure how this is related. On the live server, I'm connecting with Windows Authentication. When the same solution is run on my local machine (which is also an authenticated user on the live server), it works without any problem. Any suggestions? A: I solved the problem.
